On March 27, 2020, Consolidated Edison Company of New York, Inc. (Con Edison) and Orange and Rockland Utilities, Inc. (O&R) (the Parties) filed an executed Interconnection Agreement (Agreement) between the Parties.¹ The Parties state that in order to resolve certain reliability concerns on the O&R transmission system, O&R proposes to construct a new 345kV transmission substation, the Lovett Substation, that will be located between the Buchanan South Substation and the Ladentown Substation. The Parties also state that the Y-88 transmission line will be cut so that the portion of the Y-88 transmission line from the Buchanan South Substation to the Lovett Substation will remain designated as Y-88, and that the portion of Y-88 from the Lovett Substation to the Ladentown Substation will be designated as Y-66. The Parties explain that both Y-88 and Y-66 will both become part of the New York State transmission system and will be available for open access transmission service by New York Independent System Operator, Inc.
